About half-past 8 o'clock last night Charles Childs was shot and instantly killed by W. J. Faherty. The deed was done on the north side of Main street between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, at the point where Locust alley begins, and nearly in front of Giblin's saloon.

James Giblin, who keeps a restaurant and bar-room at the corner of Locust alley and Main street-No. 1426-stated to our reporter last night that while he was sitting in front of his door he saw Childs and Faherty come down Locust alley together. Upon reaching Main street they stopped at the corner and had a conversation, but it made the widows and orphans of the Confederate but little impression upon Mr. Giblin until States. Tuesday Mr. Cox was in Jail Faherty charged Childs with "pulling his alley, when he heard a pistol fired, and incoat." After making this remark Childs moved towards Giblin's door. Faherty, too, turned as if to go away, and walked a What in the h-ll have you got to do with few steps across the sidewalk in the direction of the alley. coat how Childs acted, and it must have been in a rough but not unfriendly way, according to his description. In consequence of Childs's shaking of him, Faherty became angry, and drew the pistol and fired the fatal shot. Faherty asserts that he intended to shoot over Childs's head, into the air, to scare him, not to hurt A QUESTION NOT ANSWERED.

CITY-SKETCH OF THE INSTITUTION, &c. To-night at 8 o'clock the closing exercises of the Richmond Normal School (colored) and the distribution of medals and awards to the proticient pupils will take place in the assembly-room of the institution, which is situated near the corner of Twelfth and Clay streets, and is presided over by Mr. R. M. Manly, the untiring principal. His interest in the success not only of the school said they were excellent friends, and as he his desire to aid in the advancement of our public schools, has made him very prominent in this city during the past few years.
